

Fordham NYSSA Competition & CFA Research Challenge

Getting Involved

Contact Professor: Robert J. Fuest: r.fuest@landorfuest.com

Looking For Experience!

Want Practical Knowledge You Can Use On Interviews and When You Get A Job?

Don't have Fundamental Research Experience and aren't a CFA, you can try out for the Fordham Team for the CFA Research Challenge. Don't worry, if you don't get in this year, you can compete on our internal team for experience and a chance for next year!

A team of five members will be selected and those that do not get in will be able to participate in an internal challenge that mimics the competition, gaining more experience for the following year's team!

Because we have built an internal team last year, we will do the same this year. Students who competed internally SHOULD APPLY for this competitive process this year.

Last year, Jay Lugosch received a job offer at Lazard Capital Markets directly because his involvement with the Fordham NYSSA Team--that could be you!

Additional materials can be found on the Fordham Finance Society Website as well as on my internal page for the competition. Both link are below.

To Apply, you must submit a three page research report (no model needed but financials are necessary), a letter stating why you want to apply, and a resume stating your past experience (with applicable courses, competitions, etc). A report example can be found here on the FFS website.
